Grand Jeelani CONFERENCE

From Baghdad
to Malabar

PERSIANARTISTRY.MALABARSOUL.

What Is Jeelani Conference?

The Jeelani Conference is a commemorative, academic, and spiritual assembly organized to honor the life, teachings, and enduring legacy of the revered 12th-century scholar and Sufi master, Shaykh Abd al-Qadir al-Jilani. Moving beyond a conventional devotional gathering, it serves as a dynamic forum that unites sacred tradition, scholastic discourse, and student research, emphasizing inner purification (tasawwuf) alongside orthodox legal scholarship.

Conceptually framed around the dialogue between global Islamic heritage and local identity ("Persian Artistry. Malabar Soul"), the event draws creative inspiration from the Ottoman and Persian arabesque tilework adorning Shaykh Jilani's shrine in Baghdad. Organized by the Alathoorpadi Students Association, the conference serves both as an academic milestone for developing student scholarship and as an inspiring platform connecting historical learning with the living Dars tradition of Malabar.

CONFERENCE

The visual identity of this year's Shaykh 'Abd al-Qādir al-Jīlānī Commemoration and Jīlānī Conference draws inspiration from the Turquoise Ottoman Arabesque Tile Pattern adorning the dome of the revered shrine of Shaykh 'Abd al-Qādir al-Jīlānī in Baghdad. The pattern represents more than an architectural ornament. Its artistic lineage reflects a centuries-long journey across the Islamic world—from the Seljuk and Persianate traditions to Timurid art, through Ottoman artistic culture, and ultimately to Baghdad, where Ottoman patronage shaped the shrine following the conquest of Baghdad in 1534. This journey provides a powerful metaphor for the Jīlānī legacy itself. Just as the arabesque travelled across regions, cultures and generations while retaining its essential identity, the teachings and spiritual legacy of Shaykh 'Abd al-Qādir al-Jīlānī transcended geographical boundaries and continued to inspire communities across the Muslim world. The interwoven geometry symbolises connection and continuity; the endless arabesque evokes an enduring legacy; and the turquoise and deep blue reflect the visual heritage of Islamic sacred architecture. Thus, the pattern becomes a visual expression of the conference theme: a living tradition travelling through generations, connecting Baghdad and the wider Muslim world through knowledge, spirituality and remembrance.

The pattern draws inspiration from the ornamental language of Islamic and Ottoman ceramic art, particularly the rich blue-and-turquoise tile traditions associated with mosque and shrine architecture. Repeated pointed arches, floral arabesques, geometric latticework, and stylised blossoms create a sense of rhythm, continuity and spiritual harmony. For the commemoration of Shaykh ‘Abd al-Qādir al-Jīlānī, the pattern symbolically evokes the visual culture of the Islamic world and the architectural heritage surrounding sacred spaces. The interlocking repetition suggests the continuity of knowledge and spiritual tradition, while the floral motifs represent beauty, growth and flourishing spirituality. The dominant cobalt blue and turquoise convey serenity and transcendence, complemented by gold and white to suggest illumination and sacred splendour. The design therefore serves not merely as decoration, but as a visual bridge between Islamic artistic heritage, sacred architecture, and the enduring spiritual legacy associated with Shaykh ‘Abd al-Qādir al-Jīlānī.

Blue and Black is the signature. Ivory is the space.

The palette expresses the spiritual dignity and heritage of the Jeelani tradition. Jeelani Navy, drawn from the dome, conveys reverence; Rose of Baghdad connects to his title and the Qadiriyya; black signifies spiritual depth; while turquoise, brass and ivory evoke sacred grandeur, heritage and purity. Together, they create a language of spirituality, tradition and elegance.

Working palette sampled and harmonised as in the description. Percentages guide compositions. Approve a physical colour proof before large-format production.

01 / A CLEAR FOCAL POINT

The central large-format screen with adaptive graphics is the primary point of focus. Ensure the seated speakers and podium are clearly framed.

02 / FAMILIAR MATERIALS

Integrated mashrabiya geometric lattice work side wings and timber-toned podium and flooring for a warm, traditional aesthetic.

03 / LAYERED LIGHTING

Warm 2700-3000 K ambience is key for mood, supplemented by cool front face lighting for video feed clarity and screen contrast.

04 / SYMMETRICAL ARCHITECTURE

Dual decorative towers with internal step lighting create a balanced and majestic setting, guiding eyes toward the speakers.
